CPO Webinar Series Presents: Findings from the Fathering In Recovery Intervention Pilot

Webinar Description:

In early recovery for substance use disorders, fathers may experience a desire to become more active in their role as a parent but may need support in using effective parenting strategies. Parent management training programs may be helpful for fathers in recovery from substance use disorders. This webinar will describe Dr. Cioffi's work using the Parent Management Training Oregon model.

Her presentation will describe the adaptation of a video-based program for text message delivery to fathers in their first year of recovery from substance use disorders, the Fathering in Recovery intervention. Dr. Cioffi will also summarize the findings from the pilot randomized controlled trial (N = 41) and outcomes related to parenting self-efficacy, parenting practices, child behavior, father substance use, opioid cravings, and psychopathology symptoms.
